During the summer of 2020, YuMe launched a new line of collectibles, the YuMe Harry Potter Magical Capsules based on JK Rowling's Wizarding World/Harry Potter & Fantastic Beasts franchise. This new collectible offered a brand-new way to unbox and collect the enchanting creatures and wizards of the Wizarding World. Designed as a bronze Hogwarts' crest with an iconic character from the Harry Potter series and inside each there seven surprise items including an iconic character from the series. The hidden are revealed through an unboxing journey of using various mechanisms to unlock each.

THE CHALLENGE:

YuMe tasked Canspan BMG with building brand awareness through media relations and influencer marketing for The YuMe Harry Potter Magical Capsules leading into the product pre-sale launch at Walmart. As well as providing continued support for launches at other retailers later in the summer.

THE STRATEGY:

In efforts to increase brand awareness, Canspan utilized our extensive media and influencers database to tap into three specific audiences; Harry Potter fans, geek collectors, and children aged 8 to 12 years old. In order to reach these consumers, Canspan tapped into Harry Potter specific influencers, geek-culture and lifestyle influencers, and toy unboxers.

To ensure maximum exposure for the line, the focus of the campaign was on partnering with TikTokkers on an unpaid basis in order to ensure authenticity and allow for budget to be directed to other marketing tactics. Although the emphasis was on working with TikTokkers, Canspan did include Instagrammers and YouTubers in the campaign and selected influencers that would effectively be cross-posting to various social platforms.

 We were thrilled with Canspan's ability to effectively reach our target market across different platforms and surpass all campaign KPI goals.
